003442.P010

ABSTRACT

A method for distributing frames among data packets is disclosed. A plurality of consecutive data frames is assigned to different data packets. Each data packet includes data frames that are sufficiently far apart such that the loss of any particular data packet distributes impact that the loss has on the quality of recovered data.